One of my favorite parts about Christmas is adding to our family's collection of ornaments every year for our tree. My husband and I started the tradition when we were first dating, picking out an ornament together when visiting the world's largest Christmas store. And every year since then, we have added a yearly ornament that signifies something important in our lives — like a baby!

Take a look at some of these great pregnancy ornaments for your tree, with everything from announcing your bundle of joy to gender reveals to ultrasound keepsakes!
